THE POLITICS AND THEORY OF COMPARATIVE CONSTITUTIONALISM

JPJ 2036: 1995-1996

Professors Nedelsky and Russell

Mondays: 2-4 p.m.

Solarium

Nature of the Course:

The course will explore the theory and practice of constitutionalism in modern democracies. Topics to be covered in the first term will include the nature of constitutionalism, popular sovereignty, property rights, aboriginal rights, the constitutionalization of positive rights, equality rights, free speech issues and mega constitutional politics. Canada, the United States, South Africa and Australia are among the countries we will discuss. The second term will be based on topics and countries which students have selected for their research papers.
